

DAVID GORDON

Born in the Borders and currently living near Earlston with his family, David graduated in Earth Sciences from Edinburgh University before embarking on a career in housing with local authorities and social landlords in England and Scotland. This included spells as Director of Housing for a Council in Fife and as Company Secretary for a large housing association based in Edinburgh. Before early retirement in 2010 David's career covered all facets of housing management - technical, social, administrative and financial. A Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Housing, David served on its Boards for 30 years, including being Chair in both East Anglia and Scotland.
